QUIT OR PICK YOURSELF UP?

Legal consultation and practical help for advice seekers with a low income

Public Legal Advice and Settlement Office of the Free and Hanseatic City of Hamburg

Quit or pick yourself up?

If

- the landlord gives notice
- the husband moves in with his girlfriend and pays no maintenance
- an authority refuses help
- the neighbours go on the rampage at night
- the employer gives notice
- you are affected by a criminal or a penalty trial
- the pensions insurer refuses the incapacity pension
- the agency for work refuses services.

then perhaps you say:

“There is no point; who will help me anyway?”

or:

“We must hire a lawyer – but I cannot afford one.”

But:

If you live in Hamburg with a low income and assets, the Public Legal Advice and Settlement Office (ÖA) can help you.

If you already

- have legal support
- can receive legal advice via a trade union or associations
- are insured for legal costs

you can not be advised by the ÖA.

Please turn to the named places in this case.

Ask the ÖA before it's too late!

For example:

- before you sign a contract – often just a “form” – whose legal significance and consequences do not review, such as
 - loan agreement,
 - rental contract with additional clauses,
 - employment contract;
- before you trade carelessly on the Internet;
- before a deadline expires, in which you can, e.g. oppose an authority's decision (mostly monthly deadline);
- before you move out of a collective rental apartment;
- before you decide to separate bindingly from your spouse;
- before you experience a court appearance or witness questioning unprepared.

How does the ÖA help you?

The ÖA advisers work as judges, lawyers and administrative solicitors. They are particularly well acquainted with the legal area they supervise thanks to many years of career experience.

The advisers are sworn to particular secrecy, especially towards authorities and courts too.

At the ÖA, you do not just receive legal information but – if necessary – also practical support and help through

- letters to the opposing party. The advisers communicate a substantiated legal opinion on matters and ask the other party for a statement. A mutual solution is often found in this way.
- The adviser formulates a letter for the opposing party or a pleading addressed to the appropriate authorities (e.g. objection).

- They demand access to records, so that you can inform yourself properly about the chances of a lawsuit.

If a judicial dispute becomes inevitable, the ÖA advises you about the possibility of using legal aid/aid with procedural costs. The advisers also explain to you how you can find a competent lawyer or a specialist lawyer for your special case, as the ÖA cannot represent you in court.

What does low income mean?

The income limits are determined by the German Social Code Book Twelve. The calculation takes place individually based on your personal situation. Therefore, please bring with you proof of income, proof of rental and maintenance costs, necessary insurances, etc. An individual calculation is worth your while.

What documents are required?

Bring with you the documents for your case, e.g. contracts, letters, decisions, judgements, etc. If you sort and organise these documents, you help the advisers and thus help yourself receive competent legal advice.

How much does the ÖA legal consultation cost?

As a general rule, the consultation costs €10 including follow-up consultations for the same issue. If necessary, the fee may be reduced to €3. Cash payment is required.

Which ÖA office is appropriate?

You can choose to turn to one of the district offices or the central office; the addresses and office hours are listed overleaf. Please note precisely the advice at the end of the list.
