

GT 4a: Calculating average monthly family income for incomes from people IN EMPLOYMENT

Name and class of the child:

A Incomes of the parents

(With single-parent families only the income from that person is counted)

Please enter annual amounts

Father

Mother

1	Annual net earnings from employment including any Christmas and holiday payments in the previous year calculated from the annual tax on income statement from the employer (*)
2	Any other special allowances net (such as indemnity payments or bonuses) insofar as they are not included in the sum under point 1
3	Other earnings such as retirement benefits or pensions
4	Benefits from the German JobCentre in the previous year according to confirmation by the JobCentre for any benefits received (*)
5	Sickness pay
6	First-home buyer allowance
7	Incomes from letting and leasing according to the last notice of income tax assessment
8	Income from capital assets (such as interest and dividends) according to the last notice of income tax assessment
9	Income from maintenance/support payments
10	Other earnings (such as education support, military family support, maternity benefit)
Total A		=

(*) Copies of evidence are to be attached

B The child's income

Child

1	Child support
2	Orphan's benefit, Orphan's benefit with one parent deceased
Total B		=

C Family expenses

Father

Mother

1	Insurance allowance of EUR 25 a month corresponds to EUR 300 per annum for each family	EUR 300
2	For work from employment (with an existing employment relationship): Fixed rates for work equipment, travel costs, pension plan contributions and contributions to professional bodies of EUR 120 a month corresponds to EUR 1,440 per annum per person
Total C		=

D Calculating the adjusted net annual income

Totals A (father/mother)
Plus total B (child)	+
Minus total C (family)	-
Total D	=

E Average monthly income

For calculating the individual charge for the child the average monthly family income is determined as

Total D divided by 12	:12	=
------------------------------	-----	---	--